BYHP appoints new Head of Service

BYHP (Banbury Young Homelessness Project) has appointed Jenny Harris as its new Head of Service.

In order to help safeguard the charity's future during the current economic climate and improve its efficiency and effectiveness BYHP's Board of Trustees has streamlined the organisation's management structure and appointed Jenny Harris as BYHP's Head of Service.

Before joining BYHP Jenny worked in Family Mediation for 17 years and has much experience in working with young people both in statutory and voluntary agencies.

Ron Barnett, Chair of the Board of Trustees said "Like every charity in the present economic climate BYHP has to prepare itself to face increases in demand for its services along with potential reduced levels of income. The Board of Trustees has therefore looked to reducing management costs and increase efficiency rather than risk cutting front line services. Jenny is an experienced voluntary sector manager and the Board is confident that under her leadership BYHP will continue to develop and provide much needed services to vulnerable young people".
