

PRESS RELEASE

15th September 2007

A Tennis Tournament in aid of BYHP (Supporting Young People in Housing Need) was held last month at Tudor Hall School.

The day was a tremendous success, providing a glorious day out for some very enthusiastic tennis players and their families.

Tea and cakes, wine and canapes provided entirely by volunteers all made for a quintessentially English day and a chance to enjoy the last of the summer sunshine in the lovely walled garden tennis courts of Tudor Hall.

The nail biting final playoff was won by Bill Adams and Cindy Carslake. A silent auction, raffle and donations by some very generous supporters meant that over £2,500 was raised for BYHP.

BYHP is indebted to Simon Bradshaw for his enormous support and brilliant organisational skills in organising such an enjoyable and successful event, to all our sponsors and players and of course to Tudor Hall School for kindly allowing us to invade their lovely school and grounds.

BYHP has worked with over 400 Young People aged 16-25 in the last twelve months in Banbury and the surrounding area. Many of them have been made homeless through no fault of their own, fleeing abuse or violence, bereavement or eviction.
